

Purpose, interpretation and application of documents published by SSG

SSG in association with now registered company SSG Standard Solutions Group AB (5564031523), and previous companies, issues guidelines in the form of documents on paper, CDs, websites, course folders, etc., for the industry with the purpose of increasing security, extending the useful life of facilities and decreasing costs.

1. The guidelines are meant to serve as a guide and are based on the conditions that applied at the time the guidelines were established and published, as well as on the conditions that are generally recognised or in practice in the Nordic region/Scandinavia.
2. SSG intends to update the content of the website and other documentation on a regular basis as the application of laws, directives and other similar regulations are developed in practice. However, SSG does not undertake to ensure that the content of the SSG website and other published material is up-to-date, exhaustive and accurate at all times.
3. Parties receiving materials published by SSG, or by third parties contracted by SSG for the publication of SSG materials, must always evaluate the information they receive. SSG is not responsible for direct or indirect loss or other claims relating to published material.
4. Material published by SSG is not intended for application in countries, areas, regions, etc., where point 3 above either fully or in part lacks basis in law, directives, other regulations or practice.

In the event of contradictions in SSG guidelines, this document applies in the first instance, any agreements regarding the service in question in the second instance and documents, verbal information, etc. relating to the service in the third instance.
